

USTA NORTH CAROLINA

2021 AWARDS

First slate of awards announced

The United States Tennis Association (USTA) North Carolina and the North Carolina Tennis Foundation are proud to announce the first group of award recipients for 2021.

Every year, USTA North Carolina honors those who go above and beyond, both on and off the court. Organizations, volunteers, and players are recognized for growing the game and for their contributions to the sport. This year, 10 award recipients were honored at the Community Development Workshop on October 2, 2021. The remaining award recipients will be announced at the Tennis Weekend Celebration in early 2022.

The 2021 award recipients honored at the Community Development Workshop are:

- Adaptive Tennis Award – Billie Fitzsimons (Wilmington, NC)
- Community Tennis Association of the Year - ENO Community Tennis Association
- Educational Merit Award: Given by Buster & Karen Brown – Keisha Price (Raleigh, NC)
- League Volunteer Service Award: Given by Omega Sports – Cathy Reagan (Durham, NC)
- Member Organization of the Year – Racquet Club of Gastonia
- USTA Junior Team Tennis Local League Coordinator of the Year – Amy Brandon (Lake Norman, NC)
- USTA League Captain of the Year – Allison Stewart-Smull (Chapel Hill, NC)
- USTA League Local League Coordinator of the Year – Cindy Perry (Outer Banks, NC)
- USTA NC Diversity Outreach & Inclusion Award – Kimberley Park Tennis Association (Winston-Salem, NC)
- Outstanding Parks & Recreation Department – Holly Springs Parks & Recreation

Learn more about NC Tennis Awards at nctennis.com/awards.